Iliff’s Master of Divinity (MDIV) degree provides you with the education necessary to serve in a vocation of ministry, including parish ministry, chaplaincy, nonprofits, and a variety of other areas. The MDIV is the primary degree essential for meeting the educational requirements for those seeking ordination in most traditions and is often required for chaplaincy positions.

A three-year program, the MDIV offers an opportunity to engage in a full array of theological studies, including an internship and other attention to personal and professional formation. The MDIV is available in residential or online format.
Iliff’s flexible curriculum allows you the opportunity to choose courses to fit your goals. You can experience courses such as:

- Theology of the Holy Spirit
- Preacher as Self: Cultivating an Authentic Voice
- Pastoral Theology and Care
- Multicultural Worship
- Identity, Power, and Difference
- Ethical Analysis and Advocacy

And you can apply your knowledge through various praxis courses and an internship.

The Journey MDIV option is available without the need to relocate to Denver.

In addition, Iliff’s MDIV Program offers you the unique ability to demonstrate your effectiveness to future employers, since you may earn certificates in specific areas of concentration while earning your degree.

As an accredited institution, financial aid is available to all who qualify.

The MDIV will give you the skills to:

- Lead and manage complex communities of faith
- Demonstrate an understanding of and accurately interpret sacred texts
- Create opportunities for dialogue in diverse settings
- Develop and organize communities for common goals

MDIV graduates lead in a number of areas, such as:

- Clergy leadership – pastors, church administrators, denominational heads, etc.
- Nonprofit managers and administrators
- Chaplains – military, hospice, hospital, etc.
- Social service providers
